PREFACE

The preparation of the Anniversary Edition of the Gregg Shorthand Manual was a big undertaking. When it was finished, there remained tasks almost as great in the revision of "Progressive Exercises," "Gregg Speed Studies," and the keys to all these books. These done, we were obliged to revise all of the supplementary books in harmony with the changes that had been made. It is with a sigh of relief that we put the finishing touches on this Dictionary, which practically completes the series.

In the revision of all the basic texts, we were not content with changing the forms for words affected by the changes in the Anniversary Edition, or with substituting new exercises in accordance with the new arrangement of the rules and material, because we wanted to give effect to many improvements suggested by our study and experience with the old editions, or which were suggested by our many teacher friends. All the books incorporate new ideas, new material, new methods.

Now as to this Dictionary: The new features are fully set forth in the Introduction—features that I believe will render the book much more valuable than any previous edition.

In sending it forth, I desire to acknowledge my indebtedness to Mr. Rupert P. SoRelle and Mr. Louis A. Leslie for their assistance in compiling the lists of words used, and in classifying them in the manner set forth in the Introduction. Special credit should be given Mrs. Winifred Kenna Richmond for the artistic manner in which she has written the shorthand forms.

JOHN ROBERT GREGG.

INTRODUCTION

A dictionary is primarily a reference book. A good dictionary, however, properly used, should be far more than that. This is particularly true of a shorthand dictionary, which should be a guide so clear that a beginner can readily locate the shorthand outline for any given word, but which at the same time should possess all the resources needed to satisfy the most advanced writer, whether a teacher or a court reporter.

The Gregg Shorthand Dictionary should not only teach the beginner, but should help the expert to crystallize his knowledge by careful classification of the shorthand forms and consistency in the use of abbreviating devices.

In the present dictionary, we have endeavored to do these things. In this brief Introduction we shall state some of the principles followed in obtaining consistency of outline. These rules cover the treatment of some frequent sound combinations, and a thorough acquaintance with them will often make it unnecessary to refer to the word list itself for an outline.

One of the most fascinating features of Gregg Shorthand is the manner in which the principle of analogy is applied. Nothing is more helpful to the shorthand writer than this principle properly used. In effect, it means that, once you have learned the forms for one or more words of any classification, you may then write any similar word ending in the same way. For example, when you know the shorthand forms for agitate and hesitate, and therefore know that the ending tate is expressed by ta, you can write any similar words, such as dictate or imitate.

In other words, the material given in this Introduction is not to be memorized, but is to be studied intelligently in order that you may see the underlying principles governing the formation of the outlines. Nothing is arbitrary —there is always a reason why, even though at first sight it may not be apparent.

First, we should explain that the following have been eliminated as being unnecessary:

1. Short, simple words that any student who is still working on the early part of the Manual can easily write, such words as cat, dog, etc.

2. Purely "dictionary words." Every word in the list of nearly 19,000 is a word in good usage. If any of the words seem unfamiliar to you, however, look them up in an ordinary English dictionary and jot down the definition in your shorthand dictionary.

3. Certain derivatives that are formed in accordance with the rules given in the textbook, such as the numerous derivatives of the suffix ulate, and some others. In order to save space and make room for more root words, a complete table of these suffix derivatives is given in this Introduction. In case there should be doubt as to the correct writing of one of the derivatives, reference to this table will make the matter clear.

The Gregg Shorthand Dictionary contains the following indispensable features:

1. A list of the 19,000 most frequently used words in the English language. The words for which the shorthand forms are immediately obvious have been omitted.

2. Many past tenses, plurals, and other derivative forms that were not included in previous editions of the shorthand dictionary.

3. Derivatives in every case grouped under the root word in easily accessible form. Since the root words in type project slightly beyond the margin of the type column, the finding of any word is greatly facilitated—it is necessary only to look down the comparatively small list of root words that stand out at the left of each column.

4. Direct derivatives, and in some cases closely allied words, are listed under their root words. This has been done in order to emphasize the value of the analogical building of outlines, and also in the belief that the practice of a group of related outlines is more valuable than the practice of the isolated outlines.

FOUR FREQUENTLY USED DERIVATIVES

The four derivatives most frequently formed are the past tense, the plural, the negative, and the comparative and superlative degrees of adjectives.

THE PAST TENSE. It may be helpful to summarize and condense the rules given in the Manual for the formation of the past tense.

GREGG SHORTHAND DICTIONARY

1. After abbreviated words, a disjoined t is placed close to the preceding character to express the past tense. This includes:
 - a. Brief forms, as in changed.
 - b. Words written in accordance with the abbreviating principle, as in established.
 - c. Words written with a suffix, as in insulted.
 - d. Words in which the last letter of the primitive form is omitted, as in demanded.
2. A disjoined t is used to express the past tense after words written in full when the joining of the t or d would not give a distinctive or facile outline, as in fancied, glared, neared.
3. The past tense is expressed by joined t or d:
 - a. After words written in full, as in printed, checked, except in the few cases coming under the preceding paragraph.
 - b. In derivatives ending in ct, as in contracted.
 - c. In verbs ending in l, the special method described in paragraph 136 in the Manual is used, as in killed.
 - d. After suffixes that give a facile and legible joining, as in mentioned, stipulated.
 - e. After many brief forms containing the last character of the word, as in asked, charged, worked.

PLURALS. The formation of plurals is clearly explained in paragraphs 55, 74, and 83 in the Manual.

NEGATIVE FORMS. The vowel is omitted in the prefixes en, in, un, em, im, um when the prefix is followed by a consonant, as in unseen, impossible, unmask, uninvited, unimportant.

When a vowel follows a prefix, the initial vowel is written, as in uneasy, unless the vowel that follows belongs to another prefix or to a brief form, in which case it is not necessary to insert the vowel in the negative prefix, as in inexpensive, unorganized.

Negative words beginning with un or im in which the n or m is doubled are distinguished from the positive forms by omitting one of the doubled consonants and inserting the initial vowel, as in unknown, immodest.

COMPARATIVE AND SUPERLATIVE FORMS. The comparative form of an adjective is usually written by simply joining an r to the primitive form, as in quicker, slower. If, however, the adjective is written in full and ends in a straight line, the reversing principle is used for the comparative form, as in larger, later; when a brief form ends with the last consonant of a word, the reversed circle is used to make the comparative form after straight lines, as in sooner, stranger; after brief forms, abbreviated words, and words ending in a reversed circle, a disjoined r is used, as in worker, purer, nearer, unless the joined form is distinctive, in which case it may be used, as in smaller, greater.

The termination est is expressed by es in words ending in a consonant when the word is written in full, as in cheapest, broadest. This rule also applies to brief forms or contractions when the final consonant of the shorthand form is also the final consonant of the word, as in soonest, strangest.

The termination est is usually expressed by a disjoined st after brief forms, abbreviated words, or words ending in a vowel, as in stillest, busiest, but the st may be joined when a distinctive form is obtained, as in fullest, truest.

FORMATION OF ADVERBS. Adverbs formed by the addition of ly to the adjective are written in shorthand by adding the small circle, signifying ly, to the primitive form of the adjective. The only exceptions to this rule are friendly, immediately, thoroughly, respectfully.

THE ENDING TION

So many words end with the suffix tion, in its various spellings, that in forming derivatives a shorthand outline is considered to end with the final letter of a word if the word ends with the suffix tion. By so doing, that great class of words may be written in accordance with such rules as those in paragraphs 76 and 59 (2) of the Anniversary Manual.

Words ending in tionist are written with the joined es, as in abolitionist, evolutionist, elocutionist. So, also, we are able to use the reversed circle for such forms as auctioneer, stationer, executioner, and the joined d for forms like mentioned, commissioned, old fashioned.

Other examples showing the manner in which the outlines ending in tion, sion, cien may be regarded as written in full are such classes of words as professional, national, provisional, sensational, rational; efficient, deficient, proficient; efficiency, deficiency, proficiency.

THE ENDING ATE

T is omitted in the terminations rate, late, tate. The t is written in the terminations fate, vate, mate, nate. The at is omitted in the terminations cate, gate. The following brief list of examples will make this clear:

- rate* accurate, commemorate, confederate, decorate, liberate, narrate, obdurate, operate, penetrate, perpetrate, venerate, vibrate. (In a few words the abbreviating principle is applied: coöperate, elaborate, inaugurate, recuperate, refrigerate, separate. To form derivatives add s for -rates, a disjoined v for -rative, a disjoined r for -rator.)
- late* annihilate, desolate, dilate, disconsolate, inflate, isolate, mutilate, oscillate, scintillate, translate, violate, ventilate.
- tate* agitate, annotate, devastate, dictate, facilitate, felicitate, gravitate, hesitate, imitate, irritate, necessitate, rotate, vegetate. (Except meditate.)
- fate,*
-vate phosphate, aggravate, captivate, cultivate, elevate, excavate, renovate.
- mate* animate, chromate, consummate, cremate, estimate, intimate, sublimate, ultimiate, primate.
- nate* alienate, alternate, assassinate, coördinate, dominate, eliminate, fascinate, illuminate, incriminate, indeterminate, inordinate, nominate, originate, predominate, subordinate, terminate, unfortunate. (In the terminations given above, the t is retained when a double vowel precedes, as in affiliate, alleviate, appropriate, conciliate, create, delineate, humiliate, radiate, except retaliate, appreciate, enunciate.)
- cate* abdicate, adjudicate, complicate, confiscate, delicate, deprecate, eradicate, fabricate, implicate, indicate, intricate, locate, allocate, dislocate, lubricate, medicate, suffocate, syndicate, vindicate. (Write ksh for -cation in words so abbreviated. There are special abbreviations for certificate, duplicate, communicate, prevaricate, reciprocate, educate. We write in full for the sake of greater legibility the words vacate, desiccate, dedicate, predicate, extricate, advocate.)
- gate* abrogate, aggregate, castigate, congregate, conjugate, corrugate, instigate, interrogate, investigate, irrigate, litigate, mitigate, navigate, obligate, propagate, relegate, segregate, subjugate, surrogate, variegate. (Write gsh for -gation in words so abbreviated. The abbreviating principle is applied to delegate, promulgate. We write in full legate, frigate.)

MODIFICATION OF WORD FORMS

In forming compound words, it is often necessary to change somewhat the form of one of the words. Examples of this are: cobweb, featherweight, flywheel, footwear, neckwear, hoodwink, horsewhip, lukewarm, milkweed, whirlwind.

FREQUENTLY RECURRING SYLLABLES

The principle of analogy is of the greatest value to the writer of a system in which it may be used to its fullest extent, as is the case with Gregg Shorthand. We shall point out here some of the useful analogical forms that are not given as such in the Manual; many of them fall under the abbreviating principle. In order to conserve space, the shorthand forms are not given, as they may easily be ascertained from the word list of this dictionary. Knowing the outline for any one of the words, and knowing that all similar combinations are written analogically, it will be a simple matter to construct the outlines for yourself. The lists are given for convenience in practice and so that you may study the application of the principle:

- ish abolish, banish, blemish, brutish, burnish, cherish, childish, famish, finish, flourish, foolish, furnish, girlish, nourish, perish, polish, punish, relish, Spanish, stylish, tarnish, vanish, varnish.
- let booklet, bracelet, circlet, coverlet, eyelet, gauntlet, gimlet, goblet, inlet, outlet, ringlet, streamlet, tablet, violet. (The ending ette is written in full, as in palette, roulette, silhouette.)
- cious (All but a few words with this ending may be written under the abbreviating principle without the us.) audacious, atrocious, avaricious, capacious, delicious, efficacious, facetious, fallacious, ferocious, fictitious, loquacious, malicious, meretricious, ostentatious, pernicious, precocious, propitious, sagacious, spacious, superstitious, tenacious, veracious, vivacious, voracious. (In some words having the cious ending, it is advisable to add the us in order to secure a more legible outline. This is usually true of words having a similar form in tion, as in captious, cautious, infectious, suspicious, vexatious, vicious.)
- fuse confuse, diffuse, infuse, profuse, refuse, transfuse.
- nction compunction, conjunction, disjunction, function, injunction, junction, sanction.
- mand command, countermand, demand, reprimand.
- ive arrive, deprive, derive, revive, survive.

GREGG SHORTHAND DICTIONARY

-meter	barometer, chronometer, speedometer, thermometer, diameter.
-pel	compel, dispel, expel, impel, propel, repel, spell. (The past tense of all the words ending in pel is formed by raising the end of the l to show the addition of d . Most of them form a derivative in pulsion , which is indicated by the addition of tion to the primitive form.)
-volve	devolve, evolve, involve, revolve. (Cf. absolve , dissolve , resolve .)
-tain	attain, ascertain, captain, certain, contain, detain, entertain, fountain, maintain, mountain, obtain, pertain, sustain.
-uate	accentuate, actuate, attenuate, effectuate, extenuate, graduate, insinuate, perpetuate. (All these words form derivatives in tion .)
-ject	abject, deject, eject, inject, project, reject.
-tern, -dern	cistern, eastern, lantern, modern, nocturne, pattern, subaltern, western.
-gent, -gence	contingent, diligent, divergent, emergent, exigent, indigent, indulgent, intelligent, negligent. (All these words form a derivative in gence , and some in gency .)
-port	comport, deport, disport, export, import, passport, purport, sport.
-verse, -versity	diverse, diversity, diversion, diverge; converse, conversion, con-
-version	verge ; perverse, perversity, perversion; adverse, adversity; inverse, inversion; reverse, reversion; subversion; obverse; university. (Uni- -verge verse is written under the abbreviating principle.)
-titude	altitude, aptitude, certitude, fortitude, latitude, platitude. (Except gratitude .)
-ric	bishopric, cambric, choleric, fabric, gastric, lyric, metric, theatric.
-vity	brevity, levity, nativity, passivity, captivity, activity, gravity, productivity.
-ntic	romantic, pedantic, Atlantic, authentic.
-ngle	angle, bangle, bungle, entangle, disentangle, mingle, mangle, sur-cingle, tangle, tingle, wrangle. (The l is omitted from the word single as the word occurs so frequently. The l is also omitted from such derivatives of angle as rectangle , triangle , quadrangle .)
-ular	angular, cellular, jugular, muscular, nebular, ocular, oracular, secular, tabular, titular, tubular, vehicular. (We may take advantage of the abbreviating principle, however, in binocular , molecular , spectacular , vernacular ; singular , rectangular , triangular .)
-arious	gregarious, multifarious, nefarious, precarious, vicarious.
-uous	arduous, assiduous, contemptuous, continuous, deciduous, fatuous,

-eous incongruous, ingenuous, impetuous, presumptuous, sinuous, strenuous, sumptuous, tempestuous, tortuous, unctuous, virtuous.

-eal, -cial beauteous, bounteous, courteous, cutaneous, duteous, erroneous, extraneous, hideous, igneous, piteous, plenteous.

-tial, -cial artificial, beneficial, circumstantial, commercial, credential, essential, influential, initial, judicial, martial, partial, penitential, pestilential, providential, provincial, prudential, residential, social, substantial, superficial.

DERIVATIVES OF COMMON ENDINGS

In the following list of the derivative forms of the suffixes and common endings of words, one complete set of derivatives is given in each case. From the outlines on the next page, any similar words may be constructed:

- scribe* describe, describes, described, description, descriptive, describable, subscriber.
- pose* dispose, disposes, disposed, disposition, disposable.
- pote* dispute, disputes, disputed, disputation, disputable, disputant.
- spect* prospect, prospects, prospected, inspection, prospective, prospector.
- quire* acquire, acquires, acquired, acquisition, acquirement.
- pire* aspire, aspires, aspired, aspiration, aspirant.
- city* capacity, capacities.
- sure* measure, measures, measured, measurable, measurement, measureless.
- flect* reflect, reflects, reflected, reflection, reflective, reflector.
- sult* consult, consults, consulted, consultation, consultative, consultant.
- tic* critic, critics, critical, critically.
- ulate* emulate, emulates, emulated, emulation, emulative, emulator, emulatory, postulant, immaculately.
- logy* psychology, psychologic, psychological, psychologically, psychologist, psychologists, psychologize, theologian.
- ograph* photograph, photographs, photographed, photography, photographer, photographic, photographic, photographically.
- eograph* telegraph, telegraphs, telegraphed, telegraphy, telegrapher, telegraphical, telegraphically.
- stic* domestic, domestics, domesticate, domesticates, domesticated, domestication, domestically.
